Breast augmentation: moving from textured to smooth implants- What to consider and surgical technique

Dear esteemed GCA Academy members,

Textured implants are known to provide a lot of benefits such as less risk of bottoming out or displacement when doing breast augmentation. However, some surgeons may choose to go for a smooth implant based on their experience/training or because they are concerned about the unlikely but serious potential complication, BIA-ALCL.

Moving from one type of implant surface to another is not that straightforward, so some considerations are needed before moving forward to master the surgical technique and avoid complications. Doctor Torres is going to share with us some tips and tricks on how to move from textured implants to smooth ones to avoid typical complications such as displacement, lateralization or bottoming out. Also, he is going to share his surgical approach to obtain great patient results and high patient satisfaction and he will talk us through the patient selection. Don't miss that opportunity to learn from him!
